

Alderman & Company Capital Selects Due Diligence Online To Provide Virtual Deal Rooms

Norwalk, CT, (PRWEB) April 11, 2007 -- Alderman & Company Capital, LLC has selected Due Diligence Online, LLC as its preferred provider for virtual deal rooms to support the communication and information exchange during client engagements. The V-Room™, powered by Due Diligence Online, LLC, will serve as the organization's platform for exchanging confidential documents in conjunction with the sales process and due diligence communications.

Alderman & Company Capital has successfully utilized the V-Room™ virtual deal room on numerous client engagements to accelerate deal timelines and increase transaction efficiencies for their clients. These previous successes led Alderman and Company Capital to select Due Diligence Online as its preferred Virtual Deal Room provider.

“ With a global reputation for helping leading aerospace and defense companies and investors successfully develop and implement financial and strategic plans to preserve and maximize value, we sought to choose a virtual deal room provider with the same level of dedication to its customers ”

"With a global reputation for helping leading aerospace and defense companies and investors successfully develop and implement financial and strategic plans to preserve and maximize value, we sought to choose a virtual deal room provider with the same level of dedication to its customers," said William H. Alderman, founder and President of Alderman and Company Capital Alderman & Company Capital. "This relationship will help improve our efficiencies, reduce our timelines, and ultimately help us to better serve our clients."

Due Diligence Online's V-Room™ Virtual Deal Rooms help Investment Bankers and M&A Advisors better manage the entire deal lifecycle, while reducing deal transaction costs. Virtual deal rooms replace the physical "war rooms" traditionally used for due diligence and accelerate the deal cycle by enabling deal participants to review and collaborate on documents simultaneously and remotely.

"The market has been shifting over the past couple of years," said Dan Bradbary, Chief Executive Officer of Due Diligence Online Due Diligence Online "Bankers and M&A Advisors are now aware of how virtual deal rooms can transform the due diligence process. They are beginning to look at how to utilize virtual deal rooms in all aspects of the transaction, even including post-merger integration. We are pleased that Alderman & Company Capital has chosen Due Diligence Online as its recommended Virtual Deal Room provider."
