

Litigation Preparedness Using Virtual Data Rooms

When I arrived in Delaware last week I realized I had forgotten a critical deposition folder. My client (hostile) was scheduled for deposing at 9:00 in the morning – the next day! I had to call the office in Los Angeles, have them FedEx the information to my hotel, postpone the meeting until the afternoon, and pray the documents weren't lost on the way. I mean, is there another way?

The Power of Technology Solves Age-Old Legal Challenges...

Bringing our technology into your firm's tool chest of deliveries makes a lot of sense – legal sense. Now you can breathe easier as your critical documents are delivered to your most valued clients - in seconds - with the highest level of security in business and government today. V-Rooms™ is paving the way for innovative Litigation Management solutions, at a fraction of the cost of the old methods such as couriers and FedExing.

We Know the Stories:

I just read another news item about the malicious or inadvertent misuse of 'emails' (and the possible sanctions). I know that attaching a file and sending the latest revision isn't secure...but...

We want a system that allows collaboration. Our firm has clients in different cities, different counties and different time zones. We could spend a fortune in travel expenses...

My team needs to create witness folders, deposition folders, manage demonstratives, and have the ability to limit access to those folders and files on a 'need to know' basis...and it has to be online...

How can we afford this technology? Some of the partners here, involved in Mergers & Acquisitions, Bankruptcy, and Restructuring have used your solutions – but isn't it expensive?

Look, this case involves eight other law firms and we need to store this information outside our firewall. Besides the IT expense in permission(ing) all the outside counsels to come into our servers and the thought of possible errors is just too much...

Sure, it sounds great but we just reviewed all responsive documents for the case and everything is Bates stamped. We use that number to search for particular documents. I don't want to lose that ability!

There is Another Way

Yes, there is another way – V-Rooms™ Legal. With over 30 years experience in bringing cutting edge technology to the Legal Industry, the staff at V-Rooms™ has solved all these problems and many more.

Our Powerful, Secure Solution Will Allow Your Legal Team to:

- Collaborate with clients and partners throughout the world, outside the restrictions of firewalls, allowing your team to participate in a secure, web-hosted collaboration experience.

Eliminate the Paper Chase

- Customize the look and functionality of each separate matter. Brand your own logo and insert your own instructions and, depending on your case, permission the team to view only those documents that you allow. It is all in your control.
- Have your entire document set at your command, Day or Night, in the office or out, in Paris or Poughkeepsie – supporting evidence, demonstratives, deposition folders, witness folders, pleadings, and motions – and be able to maintain that control up and through a War Room (trial room) experience.
- Have a complete audit trail of all activity within your ‘Legal Virtual Data Room’, from when and who loaded documents, to what documents were viewed, by whom, and when. Yes, the expert witness opened his folder on August 8 at 6:58 PM, and left himself a very short time to prepare! Maybe he might need a call!
- Even if other on-line tools were used for discovery, V-Rooms™ can accept Bates numbering or other document indicators, and you will have no interruption in the records management of the case document set.
- The experts at V-Rooms™ will be happy to participate in the ‘meet and confer’, where many critical data exchange decisions are made – saving valuable time and providing your clients with added benefits.
